City To Increase Garbage Pickup

New Rate, Plan Due In Cameron

City councilmen Tuesday night authorized new city ordinances to increase to twice-a-week garbage pickup, to add trash pickup and up monthly service charges.

The action came after discussion of a municipal refuse analysis by the State Health Department which recommended the additional garbage and trash pickup services.

The letter report, signed by F. J. Von Zuben, Jr., chief engineer of the sanitation section of Division of Sanitary Engineering, Austin, commended Cameron's daily refuse pickup in downtown Cameron, but suggested the twice-a-week program for residential areas.

The additional services would mean an increase from 50 cents to $1 monthly for residential service and from $2 to $3 for commercial pickup.

Officials said a second garbage truck would be added to the city service and a bulldozer would be added to city equipment for proper coverage of refuse at the city dump.

Medical authorities in Cameron and Milam County are in general agreement for the increased service need, one councilman said.

In other Council action Tuesday night the city:

PURCHASED 918 feet of 48-inch pipe from Texas Vitrified Pipe Co., Waco, for $7.50 a foot, but tabled a bid from Slough Construction Co., Temple, for emplacing the pipe at $2.96 a foot.

Officials said consideration was being given to using city equipment and saving some of the installation cost of the line to be emplaced north-south from E. Sixth St. to E. Eighth.

HEARD assurance that paving on E. 10th St. and North Jackson from Ninth to Twelfth Sts. would begin Monday.

SET public hearing date for the proposed 1959-60 city budget for September 15.

PAID for paving work on three Cameron streets totaling about $1600 to Slough Construction Co.

CALLED for Marvin Turner Engineering Consultants to revise one part of their estimate on reworking the master sewerline plan for the city.

Von Zuben noted in his letter on refuse pickup analysis that once-a-week garbage pickup was dangerous healthwise because it was not often enough to the fly-breeding cycle in and around refuse containers.

He recommended also more extensive land fill burial of trash and garbage at the city dump to prevent development of rodent problems and insects.

New Pastor Notes Experiences In Communist China

The Rev. Paul R. Wood, formerly of Antlers, Okla., has accepted the pastorate of the First Assembly of God Church, 15th and Houston.

A former prisoner of the Communist Chinese, Rev. Wood was one of the last escapees from Northwest China. He was born in Peking, China.

During four years of evangelistic work, Rev. Wood has toured 49 states and 10 foreign countries. He notes experience singing with some leading gospel quartets.

Mrs. Wood is a native of Cloudy, Okla. They have one child, Sheri, 2.

He told the Herald that he has lectured on his travels and experiences in China and Tibet before civic clubs throughout the nation.

Rev. and Mrs. Wood have been in Cameron about two weeks.

He said that as a child he once played with Tibet's deposed Dalai Lama in one of General Claire Chennault's "flying tiger" fighter planes.

His confinement under Communist Chinese regimes came after the end of World War II in the Pacific, he said.

Don Frasier

Don Frasier, 24, Assumes Pulpit At City Church

Don Frasier, 24, has moved to Cameron to serve as minister of the Church of Christ, succeeding Mr. Cato Sheerer.

A native of Dallas and a 1956 graduate of Abilene Christian College, Mr. Frasier comes to Cameron from Checotah, Okla.

He has served Church of Christ congregations at Three Rivers, Texas and Checotah as minister and had preached five years before college graduation, working as evangelist in three Southwest states.

Mr. Frasier will preach at a revival August 16-23 and will present a number of sermons that include illustrations.

The Cameron Church of Christ has sent Mr. Sheerer, former minister here, to Morgan City, La., to engage in missionary work. He has established a church in that city with financial support from Church of Christ congregations from Troy and Cameron.

Mr. Frasier and his wife have moved into residence at 706 North Central Ave. They have no children.

The Cameron Church of Christ is operating under a 1959 budget of $22,000. The congregation moved into a new building in January, 1958.

Ol' 100 With FML

Most any element is soluable in water, but the taste is not.

We note that users of Belton Reservoir water, including Cameron, have experienced a woody taste in their drinking water.

The explanation is that debris and algae from the bottom of the water body is "turning over", bringing the woody influence into circulation with the general flow of water to various city reservoirs.

100-100-100

Of course this is beyond the control of science and engineering. It's the first time in memory that water actually tasted like wood and even smelled like it.

From this experience you can imagine the tremendous possibilities of pumping substances, in soluable form, through pipelines across great distances.

It's being done in the big commercial pipelines of the nation. More than just oil or natural gas flows through those lines. By pressure and pump station control, just about every conceivable product of proper size can go through the pipelines.

100-100-100

But this latest development of transmitting woody taste and smell through rivers and tap lines to your house opens up a vast panorama of uses for pipelines.

Imagine condensing various types of liquid items in water which goes straight into the home. Then with a little decondensing of the substance you might get eau de cologne, for example, or some equally valuable commercial commodity.

The whole world of merchandising and transportation may change. You could just flow the product into the consumer's home for sampling. He would become addicted to the unknown influence and gladly pay to keep it coming.

100-100-100

Wild thinking, yes. But if we can taste and smell wood that is on the bottom of Belton Reservoir through the home tap, consider the possibilities.

In Temple they are adding well water to offset the taste. But time alone will really wear it away.

Bill Pagach Set For Washington

William Pagach, of Rt. 3 Rosebud, will start the trip of a lifetime Sunday when he flies to Washington, D. C., for the national finals of the Jaycee Road-e-o contest.

He will take along a 10-gallon cowboy hat, boots and spurs for presentation at the U. S. Junior Chamber contest in behalf of the state of Texas.

He will be among 51 finalists from 50 states and territories vying for four-year college scholarships in the annual safe-driving event.

Young Bill, 18, was Cameron's winner in the Texas Jaycee Road-e-o in June, topping an outstanding field of Texas youngsters in two-day competition at Stephenville.

Begins Monday

Competition will begin Monday afternoon for Bill and his competition in a series of tough tests to determine the nation's best teenage drivers. First prize is a $2,000 scholarship, second place, $1,500 scholarship and third, a $1,000 scholarship.

Past Jaycee President Bill Crockett has directed Pagach's prefinals training with practice driving in Cameron, Temple and Austin with the practical and written supervision of the Texas Department of Public Safety.

"Young Bill has the desire," Crockett said, "and handles his vehicles with the assurance of a champion. We're expecting him to do a whale of a job for Texas youngsters."

Pagach has undergone several days of driving obstacle courses and taking written tests, Crockett said.

Officials Urging Pupil Registration

New students entering Cameron Public Schools in grades one through eight are asked to register in the Ada Henderson building, on August 27 or 28, between the hours of 9 and 3.

A new student is a pupil that was not in the system on the last day of school last May, according to Leon Brady, elementary principal.

Six-year-olds entering the first grade for the first time and registered during the Spring Roundup need not report.

A birth certificate and a certificate of immunization against small pox and diphtheria are required of all first graders, before they can be admitted to classes. No students will be registered on the first day of school, September 1st.

Cameron Pilot, 23 Dies When Plane Crashes In Field

Billy Henry Nowaski, 23-year-old Cameron pilot, died the night of July 29 when his crop-dusting plane crashed in Bell County.

Nowaski died about 15 minutes after he was pulled from the wrecked plane and rushed to a Cameron hospital.

Funeral services and interment were conducted in Marlin where his parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Nowaski, reside.

The Rogers Air Service pilot crashed about 6 p.m. July 29 on the J. W. Holmes farm near Red Ranger.

Witnesses said it sounded like the plane's engine quit as Nowaski began another dusting run over a field.

Highway patrolmen investigated the accident and said the plane touched the ground about 150 feet from a fenceline, then traveled another 50 feet before hitting a ditch.

Authorities surmized the bi-plane flipped after striking the ditch and fell upside down in the cotton field.

The youthful pilot had been dusting the cotton field prior to the tragedy.

Nowaski was rated an experienced pilot, having about three years of crop dusting experience.

Beside his parents, Nowaski is survived by a son, Willie Nowaski, Cameron.

October 4 Target Date . . .

Dial Work Continues Here

Intricate telephone equipment which will help Cameron's new dial system click beginning October 4 is now being installed in the telephone building here.

A crew of installers of the Western Electric Company, manufacturing and supply unit of the Bell System, has arrived to begin the complex work of installing new dial switches and other equipment which will serve Cameron's more than 2,300 telephones.

C. L. Carson, local manager of Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, said the installation work will be completed about September 25. This will be followed by a week of inspection and testing to be sure that everything is in good working order for the conversion.

All phases of the Plant work for the dial conversion are being coordinated by R. G. Oaks, wire chief in Cameron.

"Tailor-Made" System

"The local dial office must be tailor-made to meet the present and future telephone needs of the community. When the cutover is completed, the new dial system will be among the most modern in the nation," Carson said.

The manager said that other phases of work on the dial conversion are proceeding on schedule. New dial telephones are being installed in homes and businesses throughout the city and surrounding rural areas.

Although most of the new dial telephones are already installed, the local system will continue to operate manually until the change, Carson pointed out.

Wires Checked

All outside wires and cables are being checked. Rearrangements to some facilities will be necessary, and new cables will be added in some sections of town.

Simultaneous with the dial cutover here, every telephone number in town will be changed to include two letters and five numbers. An exchange name, "OXford" will precede all telephone numbers, the manager said.

Rotary Dedicated To Peace: Koen

Rotary Clubs in 113 countries throughout the world are united in an endeavor to promote international understanding, good will and peace.

That was the message of O. V. Koen of Austin, governor of district 587 of Rotary International, in addressing the Cameron Rotary Club yesterday, following a conference with local Rotary officers and committee chairmen.

In addition to the activities of the more than 10,200 Rotary clubs within their own communities to promote this objective, Koen explained, Rotary International has awarded grants of more than $3,000,000 in the past 12 years through its program of student fellowships, which enable outstanding college graduates to study for one year in countries other than their own, as Rotary ambassadors of good will.

Since 1947, when this program was established, 1,202 Rotary Foundation Fellowships have been awarded to students in 67 countries for study in 44 countries, he noted.

As part of a special project, Koen continued, this district of 32 clubs has provided 22 scholarships during the last nine years and has brought 22 students from Central and South America to study at Baylor University and at the University of Texas.

The 22 students have come from 16 different countries. They have interpreted their own countries to the people of Central Texas, and they have carried their interpretation of Texas back home. The Rotarians of this district have spent $27,964 on this good will enterprise during the past nine years.

Koen urged the local Rotarians to attend the Rotary district conference to be held in Temple and for the club to be well represented at the 51st annual convention of Rotary International, which will be held in Miami - Miami Beach, Florida, U.S.A. next May.

WHY DO WITHOUT A LITTLE LUXURY LIKE THIS... LET ALONE THESE BIG CHEVY VIRTUES!

Chevy's the only car of the leading low-priced three that gives you the convenience of crank-operated vent windows. No awkward latches to fumble with . . . your knuckles and fingernails will appreciate it.

bigger brakes

Bigger, yes, and built with bonded linings for as much as 66% longer life. And how's this for proof that Chevy's a real stopper: in a NASCAR*-conducted test of repeated stops from highway speeds, Chevrolet outstopped both of the "other two" time after time.

*National Association for Stock Car Advancement and Research.

award-winning engines

The NASCAR* Outstanding Achievement award goes to Chevrolet! Chevy wins for "the creation and continuing development of America's most efficient V-type engines . . . for the establishment of new levels of V8 compactness combined with outstanding smoothness." And you can choose among eight V8's and the Six that won the Mobilgas Economy Run for its class.

greater roominess

Automobile Manufacturers Association records carry the facts on this. In a Chevy sedan, for example, you've got more front seat head room than all but one of the high-priced cars! And Chevy's front seat hip room spreads up to 5.9 inches wider than comparable cars.

bigger savings

Here's solid proof that Chevrolet squeezes more miles out of a gallon: In the famous Mobilgas Economy Run, two Chevrolet sixes with Powerglide took the first two places in their class. Winning mileage: 22.38 m.p.g. And that, friends, took top honors for Chevy from every full-sized car!

full coil ride

You're the expert on ride, so you'll want to try Chevy's easygoing smoothness for yourself. MOTOR TREND magazine can give you a hint of what you're in for: ". . . the smoothest, most quiet, softest riding car in its price class." And Full Coil springs, of course, never squeak, never need grease.

fresh styling

POPULAR SCIENCE magazine gave Chevy's styling a thoughtful look, then said it this way: "In its price class, Chevy establishes a new high in daring styling . . ." You'll find your own happy way of saying that Chevy's the only unmistakably modern car in its class.

higher trade-in

N.A.D.A.* Guide Books prove that your Chevrolet will keep its value. Chevy used car prices last year, for example, averaged up to $128 higher than comparable models of the other two cars in Chevrolet's field.

Basic Principles Are Must For Success In Beef Production

Coastal Bermuda, fertilization and good grazing management are basic principles of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Brod's success in producing beef while they conserve the soil, plant and water resources on their 400 acre stock farm a few miles south of Cameron.

Officials reported that in the spring of 1957 the Brods sodded 67 acres of coastal in their 87 acre pasture. The 67 acres was old fields and the other 20 was woodland that has since been cleared of underbrush.

Each year the coastal is fertilized with about 200 lbs. of 10-20-10 per acre, and weeds are controlled by shredding or with chemicals.

For the past three weeks 59 mother cows and 36 calves have been grazing on the 67 acres of coastal Bermuda, and the grass is still standing as high as the running board on his jeep.

The Brods watch their grass as closely as they do their livestock. When the grass begins to get short, they move the cattle into the adjining 320 acre pasture of native grasses and common Bermuda. Their plans are to cross fence this pasture into two 160 acre pastures and construct one more good stock pond. When this is completed, they will have three pastures with good permanent water in each. A rotation grazing program can then be worked out where two of the pastures can be resting and making regrowth at all times.

By providing a means to rest the pastures at regular intervals, they expect to double the beef production over a few years ago. At the same time they will manage the grass so that it will send rootsdeep into the sub soil and provide grass residues to protect the soil surface. When this condition exists run off will be held to a minimum. The waer will be stored in the soil for use. The problem of erosion and flood damage will be practically eliminated.

New Babe Ruth League President is Mayor Bassel Wilson, taking the place of Eldon Batte, Chester Simons is vice-president and Jim Edwards was elected league secretary.

This is Wilson's first year in the organization, he's umpired several of the game of the past season.

Chester Simons, a Babe Ruth League coach will start on his second year in the league when baseball season rolls around next summer. Jim Edwards is one of the founders of the league and has been connected with the program in some way for several years.

V O S

At the meeting the possibility of joining up with the Rockdale baseball league was discussed.

Next year the league is going to try to cut down on the number of games played. The season has been lapping over into other summer activities. More people are going to be needed as coach and other league workers next year.

34,000 Quail Released On Texas Land

Some 34,000 quail have been released on Texas land since January through the Game and Fish Commission's restocking program, according to the assistant executive secretary.

These birds, composed of 20,000 bobwhites and 14,000 coturnix have been released on farms and ranches where conditions are favorable for both food and cover.

Despite the quail increase the past year, several parts of the state remain unpopulated. Landowners usually know their quail condition if more are needed they will be released on his land.

Landowners can mail their application for more quail to the Commission's game farm at Tyler where a large supply of quail are kept for stocking uses.

The price on the birds head is 50 cents each. The applier may have as many as needed if his land is suitable.

Hays Says: Use Correct Mailing For Parcel Post

There aren't very many people who would plan deliberately to hamper the delivery of their mail. "There are a good many people, however," says Postmaster John R. Hays, "who accomplish this unfortunate result by trying too hard to be helpful."

Much of the process of killing mail with kindness relates to parcel post. It involves putting both the principal address and the return address on more than one side - sometimes all sides - of a package. Postmaster Hays would like to thank those who do parcel post business with his office for their consideration in wanting to make work easier for his employees. And he appreciates the obvious concern that dual addresses indicate about delivery of a given package if the address side is obliterated. But there are better ways of accomplishing these worthy ends.

"So far as physical safety is involved," says Postmaster Hays, "if the package is well wrapped and well tied, and if the contents are well packed, the chances of loss or damage are very small." So far as helpfulness to post office employees is concerned, addressing on one side only contributes to simplicity and accuracy in mail handling. Multiple addresses sometimes cause the markings on parcel post sent as special handling, special delivery, insured, or c. o. d. mail to be overlooked.

"The public can avoid unnecessary work, and the post office can avoid unnecessary trouble," says Postmaster Hays, "if packages carry a single main and return address. All we ask is that the job be done properly just once."

For further information about correct preparation of parcel post call yur local office, 118.

Deviled Toast Topped With Asparagus

Toast squares—topped with the spirited taste and texture of zesty deviled ham and tender asparagus spears make the most refreshing and substantial luncheon, snack, or supper dish—especially if you have a luscious, bright cheese sauce to pour over! It's the lively-flavor of deviled ham—pre-seasoned and used right from the can—that adds tantalizing taste to the ever-popular spring vegetable, asparagus. You'll find this combination so colorful and easy to prepare, too, that there'll be extra triangles of toast you'll want to spread with spicy deviled ham—to complete the picture and entice spring-inspired appetites.

A Cameron Opportunity?

Cameron is seeing the fruits of its labors in a number of enterprises, but one that awaits some hard work and almost sure success is a truck crop center and market place for retail produce sellers.

One operator in Rockdale has handled about 2.5 million pounds of watermelons thus far, according to reports in area press. In anybody's league, that's a lot of watermelon.

It is likely that a lot of produce that could be handled through a brokerage center in Cameron, the approximate geographic center of the county, has gone through the Rockdale operation.

What is needed? Observers who see the potential of produce marketing centered in Cameron say: a good location near rail and highway facilities, contacts with market buyers in the heavy populace centers of Texas and beyond and a working arrangement with produce growers of Milam County.

One solution could be the establishment of a canning operation that would use Milam's tomato production, for example, providing annual assurance of a market for Milam tomatoes.

Establishment of a canning operation would bring two fold advantages to Cameron:

ONE — Provide employment, though possibly seasonal, for Milam County workers.

TWO — Give some stability to a business noted for its risks.

If the canning plant approach is not feasible, the market center is. It would focus the produce industry's interest in an area rich in production, but short on market. The truck crop grower could not help but improve his position if he can move his production each year.

A retail market center would provide a place where seasonal consumer and producer could meet.

This project is a natural for a combination effort of the Cameron Chamber and agricultural consultants. Mutual benefits for both town and county would be many.

How Visits Can Vary...

There was an interesting difference between Vice-President Richard Nixon's reception in Warsaw, Poland, and the various cities he visited in Russia.

Wire service reports said that one-quarter of a million people awaited Nixon's party along an unannounced motor route in the Polish capital city. While in Russia, Nixon garnered crowds all right, though never in that proportion and always with hecklers planted at points along the way.

The difference in the reception marks the difference in the two countries. Though a Communist nation, Poland is led by Wladyslaw Gomulka, an independent-minded Communist revolutionary who broke all but formal ties with Kremlin Communism.

In Moscow and other Nixon-visit sites, the Vice President was buffeted by queries from "onlookers" about American bases in West Europe and other policies of the U. S.

It was early in that Moscow junket that Nixon matched Nikita Khrushchev's usual audacity. Before crowds of reporters, TV camera men and official onlookers, Nixon and Khrushchev boxed one another's ears with the forthrightness normally only expected of the No. 1 Soviet.

It was apparently Nixon's outspoken attitude that intrigued the Polish people prior to his arrival Reports said that Khrushchev had never drawn a similar outpouring of popular approval even in that satellite country.

We can see now in this Polish welcome some of the success of John Foster Dulles' "brinkmanship". It is apparent that Communists and Communist nations understand one thing and even respect it. And that would be stern, honest policy.

Our state department would learn that "dollar diplomacy" is limited in its appeal when peoples want only the direction and initial tools to get started. After that, a clear understanding of U. S. position is the most convincing hand we can offer.

By following the thin line of hard dealing with Communism and the free world, the U. S. will find more favor than fear in politically borderline nations.

If Poland and Khrushchev himself respect Nixon's forthrightness, should not the whole world want the firm leadership of conviction rather than cursory "dollar diplomacy"?

The Nixon reception invites analysis. It could mean far-reaching changes in U. S. - Soviet dealings for an unanticipated gain in U. S. world status.

Legislators Cut State Tax Ravel

By Vern Sanford

AUSTIN—With the bottleneck broken on a tax bill for regular spending, legislators began to look down the road.

Rep. Murray Watson of Mart proposed a resolution that pointed up the lawmakers' uneasiness about having more rough decisions before the year is out.

Watson's resolution called on Gov. Daniel to say immediately whether he would call another special session to raise money for the Hale-Aikin school improvement program.

Hale-Aikin proposals, which include an $800 a year salary boost for teachers, would cost an estimated $120,000,000 a year. There have been repeated rumors that the governor will re-call the Legislature next fall to enact Hale-Aikin. Also floating around is the rumor that a 1 cent per gallon hike in the gasoline tax is being "saved" for that purpose.

Watson charged, "I think there's been a definite deal made with the Texas State Teachers Association Somebody else should know what's going on here instead of just the governor and the teachers' lobby."

Governor Daniel's supporters called this unfair. They declared that the governor, like everyone else, couldn't tell how it would be until after the dust settled from the fracas over raising money for the basic budget.

AT LAST

When the Legislature finally voted out the new $185,000,000 tax bill, it voted it out in a big way. Tally was 29-to-2 in the Senate and 115-to-24 in the House.

This is well over the required two-thirds to make the bill effective immediately on the governor's signing.

House, which had been hamstrung for seven months on the tax issue, came unstrung so suddenly it surprised the bill's advocates. Voting ended good naturedly with "yea" votes recruited in the atmosphere of an old-fashioned revival meeting.

Most talked-about feature of the new bill is a severance beneficiary tax of 1.5 per cent on natural gas. It was the first time the Senate had approved this tax. Many House members had said they would not vote for any bill that didn't include it. It will bring in an estimated $15 to $18,000,000 over two years if not ruled unconstitutional.

Three-fourths or more of the bill's revenue will come from selective sales taxes. Newcomers are a 3 per cent tax on jewelry and furs, a 3 per cent tax on hotel and motel room rentals, 3 per cent on boats, motors, cameras, air conditioners, 25 per cent on tobacco products other than cigarettes

Taxes on cigarettes will go up 3 cents a pack; liquor and wine, 20 per cent; motor vehicle sales, from 1.1 to 1.5 per cent.

Utility gross receipts will go up 20 per cent and the corporation franchise tax will go up by 75 cents per $1,000 capital for one year, 50 cents per $1,000 thereafter.

LADIES DAY

Senate debate on the tax bill was enlivened by the arrival of a "women's march on the Capitol"

Gallery was filled with flowery hats and excited chatter as some 40 to 100 women (estimates varied widely) swept in "to show those lobbyists what's what."

Leaders were Mrs. Jud Collier of Mumford and Mrs. Minnie Fisher Cunningham of New Waverly, both workers in the militantly liberal Democrats of Texas Clubs.

They were, according to Mrs. Collier, "infuriated by the scandalous lobby which has blocked action on the tax bill." Specifically, they favored a bill heavy on gas taxes and light on selective sales taxes.

Caffey Trains For Post With Aviation Agency

The Federal Aviation Agency has announced the appointment of Clement D. Caffey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lenza Caffey of Tracy, to begin training as an air route traffic controller.

He will be assigned to the Air Route Traffic Control Center.

According to Telfard W. Cowart, Chief of the ARTCC, "as an air tour traffic controller, Caffey will undergo extensive training with the experienced FAA controllers at the El Paso center, the controllers, working with the many electronic marvels surrounding them, direct for their control zone all civil and military aircraft flying on instruments from point to point throughout the United States. "Safety in the air will be Caffey's main concern."

Upon completion of his training as an air route traffic controller, Caffey will become one of the many highly trained FAA employees in the United States.

Caffey was graduated from Sharp High School and from Southwest Texas State College. He served nearly five years in the U S A F.

Mrs. Robert Wied and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Bobby Wied and children visited Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ocker and family at Baytown and other relatives at Houston recentiy.

The Little River Philosopher

Sage Chides 'Busy' Critic Who Criticizes Lazy Defense

Dear editar:

A man stopped by my place out here yesterday, said he was in a big hurry, had to get back to work, but took long enough to say he didn't approve of my letter to you last week, said I was defending laziness.

"Trouble with the world now is it's got too many lazy people in it," he said, and hurried off to work.

Well, it may be that the trouble with the world today is it's got too many lazy people in it, but this is the first I knew the hydrogen bomb was built by lazy people. Or guided missiles. Or bacteriological warfare.

Now I'm not saying everybody ought to be lazy, every time I turn on an electric light bulb I'm thankful Thomas Edison wasn't lazy, although it'd suit me if the light company was a little lazier about reading the meter, but on the other hand some of the world's greatest mischief has been caused by busy people. How much further along would the world be today if Hitler had been a lazy man?

It all depends on what a man's busy at. I guess one of the busiest men I've ever read about was that burglar they arrested in California the other day who averaged breaking into a home six nights a week for two years in twenty states.

My position is, and understand I'm not defending it, is that if a man feels like keeping busy, he ought to, and if he feels like loafing, he ought to, if he can get by with it.

When Edison perfected the light bulb, I don't figure he objected to a man's switching it on and opening up a newspaper and sitting back and enjoying himself under it. You're not going to catch me getting so busy I don't have time to enjoy the results of some other man's work. It wouldn't be fair to him.

I guess I could find out the news of this part of the country by getting out and digging it up, but it's a whole lot better to sit back and let you and The Herald dig it up for me. And I have a notion you prefer it this way, too.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Outdoors In Texas

Catfishing Is Democratic

By Vern Sanford

Catfishing is a democratic outdoors sport.

A catfish doesn't care whether you use a drop line, trotline, cane pole or casting rod, just so there is something to eat at the end of the line. And he doesn't care a finwiggle what that something is.

But, don't get the idea that Old Whiskers is a dumb fish. He isn't. It takes experience to become a good catfisherman. It helps too, if you know something about the catfish's eating and living habits.

For instance, the catfish is a bottom feeder. So, if you want to land a cat, let your bait sink down near where he is.

Also it's good to know the peculiarities of the various species of catfish. So let's divide the catfish tribe into three broad families and discuss how best to take each of the species.

CHANNEL CAT: Probably the most sporting of the catfish.

The channel cat, however, is no more choosy a feeder than his cousins. He is available to fishermen using the usual catfish bait. This includes insects, crayfish, worms, frogs, various fishes, such as perch, minnows, etc. Also "stink bait", commercially prepared, or made from the most evil-smelling concoction you can invent.

Here's a popular stink bait formula: Place cut-up shad or sunfish in a jar of water and forget about it until it becomes nice and ripe. Mix this with some adhesive "body" such as dough or cotton. Then mold into balls and place on the hook.

Channel cats generally are found around fast-flowing water. However, many factors enter into their choice of lurking places. As an oldtimer put it, "You gotta fish in the place where the fish are at."

During the day, channel cats are more often found in deep water, near logs or underbrush. Knowledge of their probable whereabouts can come only from experience. Time of year and time of day often determine their location, and this varies in different localities.

Angling for this tasty-meated fish is an art in itself. Daylight fishing especially requires shrewd figuring on the fish's hiding place, whether you are casting or pole fishing.

On your rod, or pole, use 30-lb. test line and be sure your rod or pole is stout. Attach a sinker just above a 1½ inch hook (catfish have big mouths) for a weighted bait carried along the bottom appears more natural to a channel cat than bait hanging from a float.

Rod and pole angling can be done from bridges, piers or banks. But best results come from wading or walking the shorelines, plucking your offering toward any spot that looks likely, such as logs, brush, holes, pilings, etc.

Channel cats are caught on trotlines occasionally, but the trotline method is more often used for the blue and yellow cats.

Drop lines are more effective for channel cat. To fix a good drop line, take the necessary length of stout trotline, tie to an overhanging tree branch and attach your weighted hook and bait to the lower end. Let the line dangle several feet under water so that the movement of the branch will move line and bait up and down.

For bait, use small live perch, shrimp, or stink bait.

BLUE CAT: The largest of the Texas catfish, with a maximum weight of 150 pounds. Blue cats are found all over Texas in various sub-species. Mostly they inhabit large lakes and streams. Usually they are taken by trotline fishermen using whole shad, sunfish, suckers, carp, or bait cut from these fishes. However, smaller blues often are caught with rod and reel, cane poles, and drop lines.

If you intend to use a trotline, be sure it complies with local regulations.

An average trotline has from ten to thirty hooks, set three or four feet apart, attached to the main line by stagings, or leaders, each about two or three feet long. Where possible, stagings should be attached to the trotline by swivels to prevent the fish from twisting off.

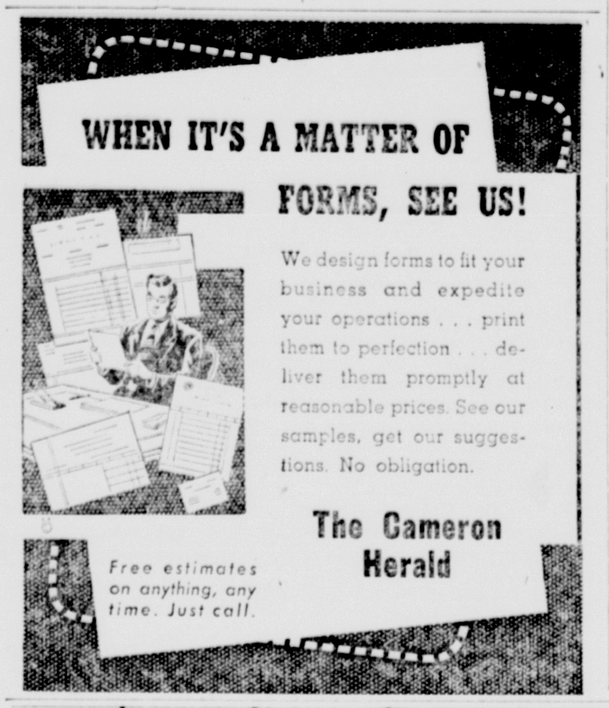

Use a 75-lb. to 100-lb. test for your main line, and also for the leaders, or stagings. Weight your stagings and attach to each a 1½" to 2" hook. Allow ten or more feet free of staging at each end of the trotline.

Tie one end of the trotline to a tree or stake on shore. Tie the other end to a snag, rock, or stake, out to whatever distance you determine best for your particular body of water. Weight the main line in the middle with rocks or iron. Bait the hooks with your predetermined lure, then attach a turkey bell to the shore end of the line.

Now all you have to do is sit back and wait for the ringing bell to tell you that there is a fish somewhere out yonder on your line.

YELLOW CAT: Also known as mud cat, flathead, etc. Maximum size over 100 pounds, sometimes over 5 feet in length. This catfish lives and feeds on the bottom, so set your trotline to get results. Yellows hide under cutbanks, rocks and hollow logs. Bait your hooks with three or four inch sunfish, or a good stink bait. Otherwise proceed as you do with blues, only be sure your stagings drag the bottom.

Catfishing takes savvy, just as do all other forms of fishing. But if you'll use these tips and plain "hoss sense," before long you'll be catching catfish as large as are caught by the oldtimers in the next boat.

Milam Grain Co. Has Capacity Of 375,000 Pounds Per Hour

Milam Grain Co., 201 Cedar St., has recently opened for the 1959 maize season.

Manager C. O. Angell says that Milam Grain Co., now in its third year of operation has an unloading capacity of 375,000 pounds an hour.

"This means that there is much quicker unloading when farmers bring in their grain for storage," Angell says.

The increased size is possible through enlargement of unloading facilities used in 1957 from 75,000 pounds per hour capacity to 150,000 pounds per hour, he points out.

375,000 Pounds An Hour

Combined unloading facilities of the Milam Grain Co. is able to handle 375,000 pounds an hour compared to 75,000 pounds an hour in 1957.

Additional storage space also is available after expansion work in the storage buildings to hold 200 cars of maize.

"We have additional storage facilities elsewhere when the maize harvest starts," the Milam Grain Company manager notes.

"We believe these facilities at Milam Grain Co., make our operation the best storage market in the area," he continues.

Officers of Milam Grain Co. are Perry Holder, president; Angell, vice-president; Robert M. Clark, secretary-treasurer.

Old Batte Mill

The Milam Grain Co. buildings were once the old Batte Oil Mill which was re-opened for grain storage in 1957.

A Cameron Opportunity?

Cameron is seeing the fruits of its labors in a number of enterprises, but one that awaits some hard work and almost sure success is a truck crop center and market place for retail produce sellers.

One operator in Rockdale has handled about 2.5 million pounds of watermelons thus far, according to reports in area press. In anybody's league, that's a lot of watermelon.

It is likely that a lot of produce that could be handled through a brokerage center in Cameron, the approximate geographic center of the county, has gone through the Rockdale operation.

What is needed? Observers who see the potential of produce marketing centered in Cameron say: a good location near rail and highway facilities, contacts with market buyers in the heavy populace centers of Texas and beyond and a working arrangement with produce growers of Milam County.

One solution could be the establishment of a canning operation that would use Milam's tomato production, for example, providing annual assurance of a market for Milam tomatoes.

Establishment of a canning operation would bring two fold advantages to Cameron:

ONE — Provide employment, though possibly seasonal, for Milam County workers.

TWO — Give some stability to a business noted for its risks.

If the canning plant approach is not feasible, the market center is. It would focus the produce industry's interest in an area rich in production, but short on market. The truck crop grower could not help but improve his position if he can move his production each year.

A retail market center would provide a place where seasonal consumer and producer could meet.

This project is a natural for a combination effort of the Cameron Chamber and agricultural consultants. Mutual benefits for both town and county would be many.

How Visits Can Vary...

There was an interesting difference between Vice-President Richard Nixon's reception in Warsaw, Poland, and the various cities he visited in Russia.

Wire service reports said that one-quarter of a million people awaited Nixon's party along an unannounced motor route in the Polish capital city. While in Russia, Nixon garnered crowds all right, though never in that proportion and always with hecklers planted at points along the way.

The difference in the reception marks the difference in the two countries. Though a Communist nation, Poland is led by Wladyslaw Gomulka, an independent-minded Communist revolutionary who broke all but formal ties with Kremlin Communism.

In Moscow and other Nixon-visit sites, the Vice President was buffeted by queries from "onlookers" about American bases in West Europe and other policies of the U. S.

It was early in that Moscow junket that Nixon matched Nikita Khrushchev's usual audacity. Before crowds of reporters, TV camera men and official onlookers, Nixon and Khrushchev boxed one another's ears with the forthrightness normally only expected of the No. 1 Soviet.

It was apparently Nixon's outspoken attitude that intrigued the Polish people prior to his arrival. Reports said that Khrushchev had never drawn a similar outpouring of popular approval even in that satellite country.

We can see now in this Polish welcome some of the success of John Foster Dulles' "brinkmanship". It is apparent that Communists and Communist nations understand one thing and even respect it. And that would be stern, honest policy.

Our state department would learn that "dollar diplomacy" is limited in its appeal when peoples want only the direction and initial tools to get started. After that, a clear understanding of U. S. position is the most convincing hand we can offer.

By following the thin line of hard dealing with Communism and the free world, the U. S. will find more favor than fear in politically borderline nations.

If Poland and Khrushchev himself respect Nixon's forthrightness, should not the whole world want the firm leadership of conviction rather than cursory "dollar diplomacy"?

The Nixon reception invites analysis. It could mean far-reaching changes in U. S. - Soviet dealings for an unanticipated gain in U. S. world status.

Legislators Cut State Tax Ravel

By Vern Sanford

AUSTIN—With the bottleneck broken on a tax bill for regular spending, legislators began to look down the road.

Rep. Murray Watson of Mart proposed a resolution that pointed up the lawmakers' uneasiness about having more rough decisions before the year is out.

Watson's resolution called on Gov. Daniel to say immediately whether he would call another special session to raise money for the Hale-Aikin school improvement program.

Hale-Aikin proposals, which include an $800 a year salary boost for teachers, would cost an estimated $120,000,000 a year. There have been repeated rumors that the governor will re-call the Legislature next fall to enact Hale-Aikin. Also floating around is the rumor that a 1 cent per gallon hike in the gasoline tax is being "saved" for that purpose.

Watson charged, "I think there's been a definite deal made with the Texas State Teachers Association Somebody else should know what's going on here instead of just the governor and the teachers' lobby."

Governor Daniel's supporters called this unfair. They declared that the governor, like everyone else, couldn't tell how it would be until after the dust settled from the fracas over raising money for the basic budget.

AT LAST

When the Legislature finally voted out the new $185,000,000 tax bill, it voted it out in a big way. Tally was 29-to-2 in the Senate and 115-to-24 in the House.

This is well over the required two-thirds to make the bill effective immediately on the governor's signing.

House, which had been hamstrung for seven months on the tax issue, came unstrung so suddenly it surprised the bill's advocates. Voting ended good naturedly with "yea" votes recruited in the atmosphere of an old-fashioned revival meeting.

Most talked-about feature of the new bill is a severance beneficiary tax of 1.5 per cent on natural gas. It was the first time the Senate had approved this tax. Many House members had said they would not vote for any bill that didn't include it. It will bring in an estimated $15 to $18,000,000 over two years if not ruled unconstitutional.

Three-fourths or more of the bill's revenue will come from selective sales taxes. Newcomers are a 3 per cent tax on jewelry and furs, a 3 per cent tax on hotel and motel room rentals, 3 per cent on boats, motors, cameras, air conditioners, 25 per cent on tobacco products other than cigarettes.

Taxes on cigarettes will go up 3 cents a pack; liquor and wine, 20 per cent; motor vehicle sales, from 1.1 to 1.5 per cent.

Utility gross receipts will go up 20 per cent and the corporation franchise tax will go up by 75 cents per $1,000 capital for one year, 50 cents per $1,000 thereafter.

LADIES DAY

Senate debate on the tax bill was enlivened by the arrival of a "women's march on the Capitol"

Gallery was filled with flowery hats and excited chatter as some 40 to 100 women (estimates varied widely) swept in "to show those lobbyists what's what."

Leaders were Mrs. Jud Collier of Mumford and Mrs. Minnie Fisher Cunningham of New Waverly, both workers in the militantly liberal Democrats of Texas Clubs.

They were, according to Mrs. Collier, "infuriated by the scandalous lobby which has blocked action on the tax bill." Specifically, they favored a bill heavy on gas taxes and light on selective sales taxes.

Caffey Trains For Post With Aviation Agency

The Federal Aviation Agency has announced the appointment of Clement D. Caffey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lenza Caffey of Tracy, to begin training as an air route traffic controller.

He will be assigned to the Air Route Traffic Control Center.

According to Telfard W. Cowart, Chief of the ARTCC, "as an air tour traffic controller, Caffey will undergo extensive training with the experienced FAA controllers at the El Paso center, the controllers, working with the many electronic marvels surrounding them, direct for their control zone all civil and military aircraft flying on instruments from point to point throughout the United States. "Safety in the air will be Caffey's main concern."

Upon completion of his training as an air route traffic controller, Caffey will become one of the many highly trained FAA employees in the United States.

Caffey was graduated from Sharp High School and from Southwest Texas State College. He served nearly five years in the U S A F.

Mrs. Robert Wied and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Bobby Wied and children visited Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ocker and family at Baytown and other relatives at Houston recentiy.

The Little River Philosopher

Sage Chides 'Busy' Critic Who Criticizes Lazy Defense

Dear editar:

A man stopped by my place out here yesterday, said he was in a big hurry, had to get back to work, but took long enough to say he didn't approve of my letter to you last week, said I was defending laziness.

"Trouble with the world now is it's got too many lazy people in it," he said, and hurried off to work.

Well, it may be that the trouble with the world today is it's got too many lazy people in it, but this is the first I knew the hydrogen bomb was built by lazy people. Or guided missiles. Or bacteriological warfare.

Now I'm not saying everybody ought to be lazy, every time I turn on an electric light bulb I'm thankful Thomas Edison wasn't lazy, although it'd suit me if the light company was a little lazier about reading the meter, but on the other hand some of the world's greatest mischief has been caused by busy people. How much further along would the world be today if Hitler had been a lazy man?

It all depends on what a man's busy at. I guess one of the busiest men I've ever read about was that burglar they arrested in California the other day who averaged breaking into a home six nights a week for two years in twenty states.

My position is, and understand I'm not defending it, is that if a man feels like keeping busy, he ought to, and if he feels like loafing, he ought to, if he can get by with it.

When Edison perfected the light bulb, I don't figure he objected to a man's switching it on and opening up a newspaper and sitting back and enjoying himself under it. You're not going to catch me getting so busy I don't have time to enjoy the results of some other man's work. It wouldn't be fair to him.

I guess I could find out the news of this part of the country by getting out and digging it up, but it's a whole lot better to sit back and let you and The Herald dig it up for me. And I have a notion you prefer it this way, too.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Catfishing Is Democratic

By Vern Sanford

Catfishing is a democratic outdoors sport.

A catfish doesn't care whether you use a drop line, trotline, cane pole or casting rod, just so there is something to eat at the end of the line. And he doesn't care a finwiggle what that something is.

But, don't get the idea that Old Whiskers is a dumb fish. He isn't. It takes experience to become a good catfisherman. It helps too, if you know something about the catfish's eating and living habits.

For instance, the catfish is a bottom feeder. So, if you want to land a cat, let your bait sink down near where he is.

Also it's good to know the peculiarities of the various species of catfish. So let's divide the catfish tribe into three broad families and discuss how best to take each of the species.

CHANNEL CAT: Probably the most sporting of the catfish.

The channel cat, however, is no more choosy a feeder than his cousins. He is available to fishermen using the usual catfish bait. This includes insects, crayfish, worms, frogs, various fishes, such as perch, minnows, etc. Also "stink bait", commercially prepared, or made from the most evil-smelling concoction you can invent.

Here's a popular stink bait formula: Place cut-up shad or sunfish in a jar of water and forget about it until it becomes nice and ripe. Mix this with some adhesive "body" such as dough or cotton. Then mold into balls and place on the hook.

Channel cats generally are found around fast-flowing water. However, many factors enter into their choice of lurking places. As an oldtimer put it, "You gotta fish in the place where the fish are at."

During the day, channel cats are more often found in deep water, near logs or underbrush. Knowledge of their probable whereabouts can come only from experience. Time of year and time of day often determine their location, and this varies in different localities.

Angling for this tasty-meated fish is an art in itself. Daylight fishing especially requires shrewd figuring on the fish's hiding place, whether you are casting or pole fishing.

On your rod, or pole, use 30-lb. test line and be sure your rod or pole is stout. Attach a sinker just above a 1½ inch hook (catfish have big mouths) for a weighted bait carried along the bottom appears more natural to a channel cat than bait hanging from a float.

Rod and pole angling can be done from bridges, piers or banks. But best results come from wading or walking the shorelines, plucking your offering toward any spot that looks likely, such as logs, brush, holes, pilings, etc.

Channel cats are caught on trotlines occasionally, but the trotline method is more often used for the blue and yellow cats.

Drop lines are more effective for channel cat. To fix a good drop line, take the necessary length of stout trotline, tie to an overhanging tree branch and attach your weighted hook and bait to the lower end. Let the line dangle several feet under water so that the movement of the branch will move line and bait up and down.

For bait, use small live perch, shrimp, or stink bait.

BLUE CAT: The largest of the Texas catfish, with a maximum weight of 150 pounds. Blue cats are found all over Texas in various sub-species. Mostly they inhabit large lakes and streams. Usually they are taken by trotline fishermen using whole shad, sunfish, suckers, carp, or bait cut from these fishes. However, smaller blues often are caught with rod and reel, cane poles, and drop lines.

If you intend to use a trotline, be sure it complies with local regulations.

An average trotline has from ten to thirty hooks, set three or four feet apart, attached to the main line by stagings, or leaders, each about two or three feet long. Where possible, stagings should be attached to the trotline by swivels to prevent the fish from twisting off.

Use a 75-lb. to 100-lb. test for your main line, and also for the leaders, or stagings. Weight your stagings and attach to each a 1½" to 2" hook. Allow ten or more feet free of staging at each end of the trotline.

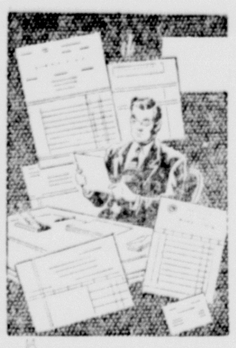

Tie one end of the trotline to a tree or stake on shore. Tie the other end to a snag, rock, or stake, out to whatever distance you determine best for your particular body of water. Weight the main line in the middle with rocks or iron. Bait the hooks with your predetermined lure, then attach a turkey bell to the shore end of the line.

Now all you have to do is sit back and wait for the ringing bell to tell you that there is a fish somewhere out yonder on your line.

YELLOW CAT: Also known as mud cat, flathead, etc. Maximum size over 100 pounds, sometimes over 5 feet in length. This catfish lives and feeds on the bottom, so set your trotline to get results. Yellows hide under cutbanks, rocks and hollow logs. Bait your hooks with three or four inch sunfish, or a good stink bait. Otherwise proceed as you do with blues, only be sure your stagings drag the bottom.

Catfishing takes savvy, just as do all other forms of fishing. But if you'll use these tips and plain "hoss sense," before long you'll be catching catfish as large as are caught by the oldtimers in the next boat.

Milam Grain Co. Has Capacity Of 375,000 Pounds Per Hour

Milam Grain Co., 201 Cedar St., has recently opened for the 1959 maize season.

Manager C. O. Angell says that Milam Grain Co., now in its third year of operation has an unloading capacity of 375,000 pounds an hour.

"This means that there is much quicker unloading when farmers bring in their grain for storage," Angell says.

The increased size is possible through enlargement of unloading facilities used in 1957 from 75,000 pounds per hour capacity to 150,000 pounds per hour, he points out.

375,000 Pounds An Hour

Combined unloading facilities of the Milam Grain Co. is able to handle 375,000 pounds an hour compared to 75,000 pounds an hour in 1957.

Additional storage space also is available after expansion work in the storage buildings to hold 200 cars of maize.

"We have additional storage facilities elsewhere when the maize harvest starts," the Milam Grain Company manager notes.

"We believe these facilities at Milam Grain Co., make our operation the best storage market in the area," he continues.

Officers of Milam Grain Co. are Perry Holder, president; Angell, vice-president; Robert M. Clark, secretary-treasurer.

Old Batte Mill

The Milam Grain Co. buildings were once the old Batte Oil Mill which was re-opened for grain storage in 1957.

More Cotton Land?

$12 Acre Rate Set For Soil Bank

COLLEGE STATION—Texas farmers will receive a basic rate of $12 an acre under announced plans for the Conservation Reserve of the Soil Bank for the 1960 crop season by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

A tentative goal of 452,000 additional acres was also announced for the State.

Principal changes listed for the 1960 Conservation Reserve in the USDA announcement include regulations relating to publicly owned land, tenure of ownership, method of setting payment rates and the determination of priorities when can be accepted.

Land owned by a state, county, town or local government will be ineligible for the program. This rule is already in effect on federally owned land. Land which has changed ownership (except through inheritance) since December 31, 1956 is ineligible to enter the program in 1960.

If land under a 1960 Conservation Reserve contract is sold, the contract generally may be assumed by the purchaser only after it has been in effect for three years.

The priority system of accepting applications has been modified to assure first consideration to farmers who were unable to participate in the 1959 program because of lack of funds.

Detailed information as to the application of these and other changes to individual farm situations will not be available in county ASC offices until mid-August, stated the USDA announcement.

County Agent Sez:

Countians Use Cattle Plan

By J. D. Moore
County Agent

Leon Noack of Rockdale and Dick Ellison of the Baileyville Community, weighed their registered Hereford calves in July to follow the performance testing of registered cattle plan developed by Texas A & M College research. There is also a testing plan for commercial herds available at the county extension office.

Performance testing is an accurate method of measuring the production ability of the cow herd as well as the herd bulls. Several of the Texas A & M Experiment Stations conduct test to determine the gaining ability of prospective herd sires. Ellison is doing quite a lot of herd sire testing through this program.

Weigh Calf Crop

Briefly, a recommended program is to use herd sires of proven records with cow herds and weigh the calf crop at weaning time. A chart is available to use in adjusting the calves weight to a 205 days basis.

The calves are graded at weighing time to further classify them into groups. There are plans available for dividing the tested cattle into herds based on their records.

Noack has his cattle divided into two registered and one commercial herds. He is well pleased with his commercial calf crop. He uses a high gaining herd sire of his own breeding on his commercial herd. The average weaning weight of Noack's registered calves was 518 pounds at 205 days of age.

Watch The Weight

Alert cattlemen watch those things. Noack's bull calves are already sold for a good price, all to one man with a commercial herd in another county.

For the past half century, the average cattle herd could be improved by using a registered bull with good body conformation. Many of our marginal stockmen continue to put more emphasis on "how cheap they can buay a bull" without considering the productive value of the animal.

At present prices, a bull that will increase the weaning weight of calves fifty pounds each on 20 calves is worth $300 more to the owner than the average herd sire, not to mention the value of the heifer calves as replacement cows.

Milam county stockmen's efficiency could easily be incresed by 35 per cent.

Nitrogen Booster Prevents Shortage In Following Crop

COLLEGE STATION—An application of nitrogen to grain sorghum stubble prior to plowing it under will prevent a nitrogen shortage for the crop which follows, says W.F. Bennett, soil chemist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The chemist suggests that stalks shredded as soon after harvest as possible. An application of 20 pounds of nitrogen for each ton of residue to be turned under should be made just prior to the plowing. Where nitrogen is not applied, and stubble is left in the field until late in the year, the decomposition process will tie up the available nitrogen in the soil and often cause a nitrogen shortage for the following crop.

By using nitrogen and early shredding and plowing of stubble, this condition can be eliminated, says Bennett. Too, the nitrogen in the soil will be available for use by the crop which follows the grain sorghum.

Bennett cautions against the use of more nitrogen than the crop which is to follow can use. In no case, he adds, should more than 60 pounds of nitrogen be applied per acre. Generally, he says, about 30 pounds of nitrogen per acre will adequately take care of the residue to be plowed under on most Texas farms.

Local county agents can supply additional information on the subject.

Cotton Root Rot Historic Nemesis Of Texas Crops

COLLEGE STATION—Cotton root rot has been a serious disease in Texas for at least 100 years, says Dr. L. S. Bird, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station plant pathologist.

Obtaining information on root rot were objectives first given by the Texas A&M College System to L. H. Pammel in 1886. Dr. Pammel reported his preliminary findings in Texas Agricultural Experiment Station Bulletin No. 4 in December 1888.

Dr. Pammel said correctly that root rot is caused by a soil inhabiting fungus, and to control the disease the spores and fungus threads which transmit it through the soil from plant to plant must be destroyed. He said that from a practical point of view, a proper method of crop rotation is the best way to destroy the fungus.

Following this pioneer work, a large number of scientists working for the Texas Station, the USDA and other public agencies have studied and many are still investigating the root rot problem, Dr. Bird says.

Observations and experiments indicate that the root rot fungus attacks some 2000 species of wild and cultivated plants, with cotton the major cultivated crop attacked. For this reason, the disease is commonly referred to as cotton root rot.

Nitrogen Boosts Maize

An application of nitrogen to grain sorghum stubble prior to plowing it under will prevent a nitrogen shortage for the crop which follows, says W. F. Bennett, soil chemist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Milam Turns In Bumper Maize Despite Rains

By J. D Moore

A good maize harvest made progress in spite of spotted rains earlier in the week.

Limited harvest will continue through August due to late planted maize crops. Most outstanding thing about the 1959 maize crop is the increase in yield per acre and the early maturity of the Hybrid varieties above that of the standard varieties.

Too often, the work and results of research are "taken for granted" by most observers. This year grain sorghums yields from hybrid varities more than doubled the yields above standard varieties in Milam County. More than 75 per cent of the good crop can be attributed to hybrid varieties.

Cotton continues promising. Generally, the hot dry weather in July "burns" the cotton plants to the extent that disappointing yields are harvested from most fields. Due to rains, cool weather has prevailed through the latter part of July. Cotton plants continue green and succulent. This condition should be a deciding factor in favor of more and better developed bolls of cotton.

Due to mechanical harvesting, little attention is paid to the possibility of a "top crop" in cotton.

The question was asked this week if Milam County would produce 20,000 bales of cotton this year? We do not pretend to have the answer to this question other than a "speculation."

We made less than 10,000 bales last year for an all time low yield. This was due to "jockeying" with Uncle Sam and the failure to get available cotton acres planted. If favorable weather continues with a lot of sunshine and dry conditions and no overflows occur in the river bottoms, the county could approach the 20,000 bale mark.

Sheep Vote Due

Texas sheep producers will have an opportunity in September to vote on the question of continuing to finance a market development program for wool and lambs. The referendum will be nation-wide according to A. B. Wooten, extension economist.

Plants May Reduce Pond Oxygen Content

Due to heavy infestations of underwater plants reaching maturity, the supply of oxygen may be reduced in farm ponds. As a result, fish may be noticed swimming near the surface of the water trying to get oxygen, some may even die as a result.

Fishermen refer to this condition in a lake as "turning over." County Agent J. D. Moore advises that if oxygen depletion hits your pond, use an outboard motor, either on a boat or fixed to a stationary object, to aerate the water. Circulating water by pumping will get oxygen into it and the more splash the better. This condition can be prevented by controlling vegetative growth through the spring and early summer months.

The production of watermelons per acre may soon be doubled by planting bush types which have most of the desirable characteristics of the present vine types. Dr. H. C. Mohn, Department of Horticulture at Texas A&M College, who has played a leading rolt in developing the bush types says about twice as many plants can be grown on an acre and that production from the tests has about doubled that of vines on a 12 by 12 foot spacing. Home gardeners may also get some bush types for their limited space.

No seed of the types being developed are available.

1100 Farmers Drown

Water sports should be for fun and relaxation and not for adding more statistics to the nation's accident toll. More than 1,100 rural residents drown each year and the trend is upward.

Bloodmobile Due Here August 21, Chamber Notes

The Red Cross Bloodmobile will be in Cameron, Friday, August 21, at the First Methodist Church Youth Center, according to Dr. S. H. Richardson, chairman of the Chamber health and sanitation committee.

He said a quota of 100 pints had been set for the August visit of the bloodmobile.

A tremendous turnout for the last bloodmobile visit garnered about 160 pints of blood and 196 volunteers in the spring.

"Giving a pint of blood to help save a life or put someone back on the road to health takes very little effort, yet means so much to so many," Dr. Richardson said.

He urged that every citizen of Cameron and North Milam County schedule their time to give a pint of blood August 21.

Cameron faced loss of Red Cross blood bank services in the spring after previous contributions had falled to about 40 pints per bloodmobile visit.

Blood given to the Red Cross bloodmobile program is available to any resident of Milam County in whatever quantity needed free of charge, officials said, except for a nominal charge for administration and processing.

The bloodmobile center will be at the First Methodist Youth Center for the first time this month, Dr. Richardson said.

Through it all, Bill says he wants to go as near to the top of the young drivers as possible. If past performance is any measure, first in Texas, second in Regional and third in local, he is headed for the top.

Presentation of the hat, boots given by Justin Boot Co., Fort Worth, and spurs will be during the appearance at the White House.

Outdoors In Texas

Catfishing Is Democratic

Catfishing is a democratic outdoors sport.

A catfish doesn't care whether you use a drop line, trotline, cane pole or casting rod, just so there is something to eat at the end of the line. And he doesn't care a fin-wiggle what that something is.

But, don't get the idea that Old Whiskers is a dumb fish. He isn't. It takes experience to become a good catfisherman. It helps too, if you know something about the catfish's eating and living habits.

For instance, the catfish is a bottom feeder. So, if you want to land a cat, let your bait sink down near where he is.

Also it's good to know the peculiarities of the various species of catfish. So let's divide the catfish tribe into three broad families and discuss how best to take each of the species.

CHANNEL CAT: Probably the most sporting of the catfish.

The channel cat, however, is no more choosy a feeder than his cousins. He is available to fishermen using the usual catfish bait. This includes insects, crayfish, worms, frogs, various fishes, such as perch, minnows, etc. Also "stink bait", commercially prepared, or made from the most evil-smelling concoction you can invent.

Here's a popular stink bait formula: Place cut-up shad or sunfish in a jar of water and forget about it until it becomes nice and ripe. Mix this with some adhesive "body" such as dough or cotton. Then mold into balls and place on the hook.

Channel cats generally are found around fast-flowing water. However, many factors enter into their choice of lurking places. As an old-timer put it, "You gotta fish in the place where the fish are at."

During the day, channel cats are more often found in deep water, near logs or underbrush. Knowledge of their probable whereabouts can come only from experience. Time of year and time of day often determine their location, and this varies in different localities.

Angling for this tasty-meated fish is an art in itself. Daylight fishing especially requires shrewd figuring on the fish's hiding place, whether you are casting or pole fishing.

On your rod, or pole, use 30-lb. test line and be sure your rod or pole is stout. Attach a sinker just above a 1½ inch hook (catfish have big mouths) for a weighted bait carried along the bottom appears more natural to a channel cat than bait hanging from a float.

Rod and pole angling can be done from bridges, piers or banks. But best results come from wading or walking the shorelines, plunking your offering toward any spot that looks likely, such as logs, brush, holes, pilings, etc.

Channel cats are caught on trotlines occasionally, but the trotline method is more often used for the blue and yellow cats.

channel cat. To fix a good drop line, take the necessary length of stout trotline, tie to an overhanging tree branch and attach your weighted hook and bait to the lower end. Let the line dangle several feet under water so that the movement of the branch will move line and bait up and down.

For bait, use small live perch, shrimp, or stink bait.

BLUE CAT: The largest of the Texas catfish, with a maximum weight of 150 pounds. Blue cats are found all over Texas in various sub-species. Mostly they inhabit large lakes and streams. Usually they are taken by trotline fishermen using whole-shad, sunfish, suckers, carp, or bait cut from these fishes. However, smaller blues often are caught with rod and reel, cane poles, and drop lines.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Kuhginek of Wallis spent Sunday visiting Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Schoppe.
